HELP! I can't find answers to some of the questions being asked in the Micro Digital Media 2/e lab manual!

I've gotten that question from a few of you. The answer is - your instructor! At least your instructor should direct you to the resources they believe will supply you with answers they are looking for.

MDM2/e was written to teach basic concepts of a general microbiology lab. We did not anticipate the use of a particular book, and we knew individual instructors would choose the depth and breadth of the coverage suitable for their own classes. We cannot know how the software is being used at your individual institution. The only person who can do that is the person teaching the course.
